Comments for Public Posting: It would be a great loss to demolish Marilyn Monroe's because of her historic significance to film history and Southern California. As well as a beautiful example of mid-century architecture. Please preserve this landmark.

Comments for Public Posting: Please vote to designate Marilyn Monroe's house a historical landmark. She is so important in our local history and I feel it is imperative that we all have this landmark in our city as a reminder to her legacy. To allow it to be demolished would be a tragedy.

Comments for Public Posting: I am writing to request you vote for the HCM designation to ensure that Marilyn Monroe's association with the 1929 hacienda-style home in Brentwood is maintained, and thus making it extremely difficult to demolish in the future. Thank your for your consideration and urgent attention to this matter!!! Lenette Wardinski

Comments for Public Posting: just sort of a montage of thoughts. I think of Marilyn often, about the crazy and bad parts of her life (some of which she created, some of which were surely created for her), about the parts of her young (my god, 36 is so very young) existence that were lovely and expressed hope for things that had sadly been denied/withheld. Marilyn's own peers denied her the normalcy that every human deserves. Could we now, not only in a moment of kind remembrance, but as a sort of moment of teaching kindness, preserve her home, which seems to me, in its simplicity, to speak to the sort of person that perhaps, underneath the scars of stardom, the cynicism of the lamplight, she really was. I'm sorry that the folks who purchased this property did so with intent to destroy this odd monument to fragility. Indeed, I can't imagine doing such a thing and I very much hope that it will be decided that it can't be allowed. For those of us who've lived our lives like a candle in the wind....may there be a respite from that wind.....
Respectfully, J. Alvarez
