Comments for Public Posting: If we choose not to preserve our history, it will disappear from our collective memories and eventually forgotten for future generations. Los Angeles is a star in our history, the film industry was born there, continues to thrive there and leaves its marks on the global entertainment industry. Los Angeles is magical to those of us lucky enough to visit, we cherish the history of the movie industry, not only studios, but the homes where the giants of entertainment, lived, entertained, and raised families. We know the fine balance between historical preservation and homeowner rights; however, I would posit that anyone buying a home where history was made owes it to the greater community to honor and preserve the legacy. Thank you for taking the time to read this note from a forever fan of Los Angeles and the beauty it creates for the world to see.

Comments for Public Posting: We are known for the legacy of Marilyn Monroe and we cannot eviscerate her memory by tearing down her house. We need to protect who we are by honoring our history. This is an important house and deserves to be protected as a landmark. We can do this. It matters to us as tax paying citizens of this city. I bought property and live here because I love the history of LA and Hollywood. The world follows what we do here. It matters to preserve and protect memories and legacies. Honor Marilyn Monroe. Protect her home, Protect our right to historical buildings.

Comments for Public Posting: Conservation of the Monroe house is necessary to preserve the link between the entertainment industry and the rise of the Los Angeles today. Los Angeles depended on the industry to fuel every level of its economy. There was no better icon illustrating "movie magic" than Marilyn Monroe. Preservation connects the past to the present. It is not in the interest of the City to demolish buildings because we can. It is in the interest of the City to recognize the cultural impact Marilyn Monroe has had on generations of Angelenos. Entertainment are the roots of Los Angeles. Preserve the cultural landmarks.

Comments for Public Posting: CATEGORICAL EXEMPTION and PLANNING AND LAND USE MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE REPORT relative to the inclusion of Marilyn Monroe Residence, located at 12305 West 5th Helena Drive, in the list of Historic-Cultural Monuments. It is nothing less than astonishing to me that the demolition of this house could even be a remote possibility. Can Angelenos really care that little about our history??? Do these rich, entitled people really need an expansion to their already expansive home at the expense of an iconic structure??? Absolutely unbelievable! I hope the City Council will do the right thing and vote to preserve this house. Something besides money has to matter in Los Angeles.
Thank you, Susan Winsberg
