

MOTION

The Economic Workforce and Development Department (EWDD) provides numerous forms of employment assistance and resources to City residents. One of EWDD's most crucial tools for the provision of these services is its fourteen WorkSource Centers. These Centers act as employment agencies by offering free services to help people find jobs and businesses with employees. Most notably, WorkSource Centers help adults, dislocated workers, veterans, people experiencing homelessness, and the re-entry population with job searches, career planning, and training. The Centers also offer broad support to business owners and entrepreneurs.

WorkSource Centers also provide job readiness referrals to the City's Targeted Local Hire and Bridge to Jobs programs, which offer alternate pathways into civil service for entry-level and semi-skilled positions. In order to ensure that each WorkSource Center is providing the best support for Los Angeles residents, it is important to review the services offered at each location and best practices.

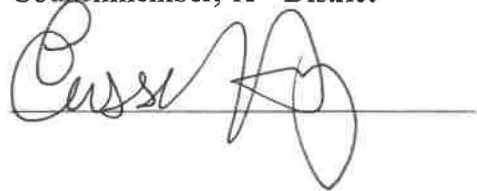

I THEREFORE MOVE that the Council instruct the Personnel Department and the Economic Workforce and Development Department to report with a review of the services offered at each WorkSource Center, identify the programs that are most popular and effective, as well as present best practices to achieve the highest results for their clients
