Comments for Public Posting: Street widening is a costly and pointless endeavor that only serves to make our city poorer and more dangerous. We need to be investing in infrastructure to make our cities safer for pedestrians/cyclists and more beautiful for everyone. My primary means of transportation is driving but I see no point in widening streets, it makes no meaningful impact on commutes and only puts pedestrians at greater risks. I'd rather drive on streets that I know are safer and I want to know that even if something goes wrong on the road, the most vulnerable people on the streets will be adequately protected.
