Comments for Public Posting: Our LA City Shelter system is overwhelmed. For many different reasons. But it boils down to more pets than homes. Anything we can do to decrease adding more animals right now, needs to be done. Almost 500 dogs are at SLA Shelter alone, in only 260 kennels. Staff & Volunteers can't keep up. Regular people are trying to help by rescuing & Fostering. But it's not enough! Breeding legally & illegally is out of control and needs to be curtailed. Why on earth would LA keep selling permits that contributes to the very thing so many of us are struggling to keep up with now. It's time that LA takes a step in a new direction! Go on social media, CA has become infamous for high kill numbers in our shelters and abandoned litters out in the middle of nowhere. Take a step in the right direction. It's past time for a compassionate stance on animal welfare in our city. Cat Edwards
