Comments for Public Posting: With respect, please know that I SUPPORT this measure which will require the largest multinational fossil fuel companies doing business in California to pay THEIR SHARE of the many climate-related damages based on their documented CO2 emissions from 1990-2004. These fee will be deposited into a Superfund account, managed by CalEPA, to mitigate existing problems and prevent future climate-related damages across our State! Taxpayers, local municipalities and the State cannot and should not have to pay for the extensive damages associated with extreme heat, wildfires, drought and floods that are attributable to the largest polluters (ie. Chevron, ExxonMobil,Shell) They have monumental earnings and they can and should cover fees associated with the bills that accrue from the damages caused. If prices rise as a result, smaller operators will attend to that market. THANK YOU.

Comments for Public Posting: Taxpayers are paying (and will continue to pay) for climate-related disasters. It is unfair that the fossil fuel industry which has caused (and continues to cause) harm to our health, homes and environment does not have to pay for the damage. If polluters have to pay for the damage they cause, they will have to raise price on their products. As it should be!! The market price of any product should reflect its full environmental impact. Then consumers can make purchase decisions that better reflect the full impacts of the products they choose. I lost my home and most of my belongings in the Palisades Fire. I am now, along with most of my community, a climate refugee. None of the costs to me personally, to the insurance industry, and to our local, state and federal governments of fighting and recovering from this fire are paid by the fossil fuel industry that has contributed to climate change which leads directly to more disasters such as wildfires. This will not be the last fire that takes lives and property in Los Angeles. It's time to make polluters pay their fair share.

Comments for Public Posting: Please support the Polluters Pay Climate Superfund, which would require the largest multinational fossil fuel companies doing business in California (i.e. Chevron, ExxonMobil, Shell) to pay their fair share of climate-related damages based on their documented CO2 emissions from 1990-2004. The fees collected from these polluters will be deposited into a Superfund account, managed by CalEPA, to mitigate existing problems and prevent future climate-related damages across the state. Comments for Public Posting: Please support the Climate Superfund legislation! The multinational fossil fuel companies doing business in California (i.e. Chevron, ExxonMobil, Shell) need to to pay their fair share of climate-related damages based on their documented CO2 emissions from 1990-2004. California taxpayers, local municipalities and the state cannot, and should not have to pay for damages associated with extreme heat, wildfires, drought and floods that are attributable to the largest polluters. This is a critical time in the history of Los Angeles and California. We are recovering from devastating fires, while defending democracy. Do the right thing, and be on the ethical and humane side of history. Thank you.

Comments for Public Posting: I support this action. Big Oil has known for a long time that fossil fuels are destroying the planet and yet they've done nothing and are continuing to do nothing to transition away from them. They are continuously showing that they care more for their wallets than for Life on this planet and it is our obligation and right to make them pay for their lies and deceit. We must do our part to fix the wrong we have done to this planet and that starts with holding people who don't care and have harmed accountable for their actions.

Comments for Public Posting: As evidenced by this January's fires that displaced & damaged the lives of so many Angelenos, the cost to individual citizens for climate disasters is staggering. Despite our best efforts to prevent natural disasters, the increasing temperature and changing climate conditions put California, a state rich with natural resources, at extreme risk. It is not a matter of if the next disaster occurs, but when. These state resolutions present an opportunity to hold polluters, who willfully lied to the public, and continue to accelerate the climate crisis, accountable for the impacts. For too long, we have allowed industry to profit while the average citizen suffers. This cannot continue. It is our duty as Californians and Angelenos to lead the way on this issue and show the rest of America how we can fight back & defend our interests/rights. The world I will bring my children into is already so different than that of my childhood. The least I can do is provide them a path to recovery should the worst happen. Please be the leaders we need and take this bold decisive action.
