Comments for Public Posting: When the city gets sued for this, and we will get sued for it, can we take it out of the discretionary funds of those who vote yes rather than the general fund? We are broke enough as it is. And now you welcome litigation? Buckle up buttercup. Also it's funny how this moves protects council only, but not any of the other volunteers on your boards and commissions. The people who are not paid have to put up with it. But your delicate sensibilities? Protected. Repression of speech is a very slippery slope. I may not use either of these words in my daily life, but the government telling us who we can and how we can insult someone is anathema to the American experiment. Just do what you usually do. Talk through comment. Pay zero attention. You wonder why your approval rate is dismal? A billion dollar debt but this is the issue at hand?
