Comments for Public Posting: Living on and in the streets is unhealthy, unsafe, unsanitary, and inhumane. Sometimes the people on the streets don't realize their dire straits especially if they suffer from mental illness, drug abuse, and depression. Giving someone the safety a four walls, and sanitary conditions will strengthen their will, improve circumstances, and settle them into future planning, rather than living day by day. There has to be better coordination, planning, and agreements between the city and private developers. It is too expensive to build units. There must be a way to qualify cheaper, neighborhood building contractors who do good work in their neighborhoods. There must be a safe way of expediting building of homes for the homeless. It should not take years and years to build one housing complex safely and up to building codes. Thank you.
