Comments for Public Posting: I've worked for years with asylum seekers who've suffered grave injuries in their home countries and additional trauma in US immigration detention centers. I urge not only the continuation of the LA Justice Fund, but a substantial increase as well as the lifting of restrictions. The monies so far have thankfully alleviated suffering, but only for a limited number of detainees. The Fund is essential, not only to support legal representation to release people from improperly punitive detention, but makes it possible to obtain the medical and psychologist forensic reports needed to prove an asylum case. Hoping for your support!
