Summary: The East Hollywood Neighborhood Council supports Councilmember Buscaino's motion on Council File 21-0002-S66. Councilmember Buscaino's motion notes that according to the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA), "there was a 19% increase in homelessness among unaccompanied youth and 'Transition Age Youth'" (individuals between ages 18-24 years old). The motion also notes that SB 739 (Cortese) is currently pending in the California State Senate, which would create the California Universal Basic Income for Transition Age Youth program, providing $1,000 monthly to California residents who are 21 years of age and have exited the foster care system. Given that there is an overrepresentation of black and brown youth in the nearly 19,000 children in out-of-home placements, and given that a universal basic income program would benefit the financial, physical, and mental/emotional wellbeing of this uniquely vulnerable population, the East Hollywood Neighborhood Council is IN SUPPORT of the passage of this Council File.
