Comments for Public Posting: I am concerned a vaccine mandate will hurt our small and medium size businesses at a time when they're just recovering from the lockdowns. I'm also concerned that requiring people to get a vaccine who already have antibodies from natural exposure could be put at a greater risk for vaccine injury. With the tools we have in place: Masks, social distancing, and viable treatments(when used early), we should be able to continue our economic recovery. Even though the vaccines have been shown to protect the individuals who get them from major symptoms, it is important to remember that the vaccines are non-FDA approved And therefore still experimental and do not stop transmission of the virus. Therefore there is no compelling reason they should be mandated for everyone. Thank You
