Comments for Public Posting: I am in support of Councilmember Raman's resolution calling on the County and State to make policy changes that will create more opportunity for LA food vendors. The majority of food vendors in the City of LA have not been able to access the City's permit program because outdated County and State food vending laws make it impossible for vendors to comply with health code. The City of LA should be focused on advocating for vendors and creating more pathways for their participation in the City's vending program, not introducing new measures that could lead to criminal penalties. I urge you to support Councilmember Raman's resolution and continue working with vendors and advocates to ensure the success of the City's street vending program.

Comments for Public Posting: I support CM Raman's resolution which calls for county & state policy updates that will make it possible for food vendors to obtain health permits. As a frequent patron of street vendors, I personally can attest that they provide a safe and delicious option and fill a niche service. Street vendors are a cultural staple of LA and provide a more accessible avenue for people to start and own a small business. They should be allowed to obtain a health permit like any other restaurant or small business.
