Comments for Public Posting: I urge that the building on Crenshaw Boulevard, which housed the Women's Center and numerous feminist activities in 1970-1972 be designated a historic place. The Self-Help Clinic One launched a national movement from this building; it was the hub of feminist activity in Los Angeles. The activities of Self-Help attracted visitors from around the country who then went back to their community to set up a Self-Help Clinic to enable women to learn more about their bodies, and the Self-Help Clinic was featured in numerous national magazines, including Life Magazine. Thank you, Carol Downer
