

Alfonso Directo Jr. (he/him) advocates for equitable and environmentally sustainable cities and works as the Advocacy Manager at the Alliance for Community Transit - Los Angeles (ACT-LA). Alfonso draws on his engineering and policy backgrounds and uplifts the lived experience of community members in LA's historically marginalized groups to advance racial, environmental, and economic justice in housing and transportation. Alfonso is a licensed civil engineer with a passion for people-powered design. In his personal capacity, he serves as Chair of LA Metro's Westside/Central Service Council, a public advisory group to LA Metro on bus service. Alfonso's values are rooted in a working class Filipino American immigrant community in Long Beach and Orange County, CA. He now resides in LA with his spouse and their two lively young children.
