Comments for Public Posting: Good Morning City Council and our mayor! Just wanted to remind you and anyone who reads these Public Comments we do not have an emergency in Los Angeles. We do, however, have a State of Emergency in our City Government: the mayor soon to be on his way to India, if that pesky little problem he has can be taken care of, and our completely incapable city council. If you are a landlord waiting for the funding for tenants who have used covid to self-declare they lost income and can't pay rent, it is because the paperwork is bogged down and moving at a snail's pace. That, as well as no ability to figure out affordable housing or homelessness, is what is keeping the moratorium motoring, not covid. We all must pay attention to our local politics (the lesson being on the national news daily) about what happens if you don't vote and don't get involved thinking it'll all work out. It won't. Oh wait, well the CC did get hotel housekeepers better wages AND most importantly got minimum wage raised, which I mentioned in a prior post, should help landlords get paid rent. The accomplishments of our current city officials is astonishing in its incompetence. Two years headed towards three. POST HERE (even though it is doubtful anyone at the City reads it) keeps it full and write to the LATimes, California section, to voice your frustrations with our useless, current city government. Susan from Highland Park and yes, Kevin, I have signed the recall. The hotel you are holding hostage is unbelievable but certainly not unexpected.
