Comments for Public Posting: I have talked to several different council persons offices throughout the city of Los Angeles and each one says something different regarding AB2179 and the repayment period of COVID rental debt. Shouldn't you, the city council members, making the laws have an understanding of the law before you write new laws. One councilman office said they had to get back to me and didn't know the answer on whether or not tenants had to repayment all back due rent by August 31, 2023, they had to research it. Shouldn't all this already have been researched considering repayments needed to start on August 1, 2022? It seems like the city council is good at writing laws but abiding by them. You all know that tenants were suppose to start paying COVID rental debt at the beginning of this month on August 1, 2022 but you chose to ignore it and pretend like you were unaware. It's time for you to be accountable for your actions. The lawsuits are coming.
