Comments for Public Posting: The Housing Committee did not do their job and so we are left again in an ongoing state of emergency that has lost its emergency. But THIS new state of emergency is directly inside the city council. Are we to be stuck forever in the doldrums of city hall's inability to ever get anything done. COUNCILMAN KREKORIAN, a member of the Housing Committee, an elected representative by his district and for his district recuses himself from the vote because he is a landlord? Or because he is afraid to take a side that might harm him from his tenant constituents or from his landlord constituents? Maybe even just all his constituents who are sick to death of our lame city council who find their jobs impossible to do. Just another example of taking the easy way out. Put a moratorium in place, fighters of the pandemic! But, oh wait, what did we do and how did we, or why did we, and going on three years, we don't know what to do and the City is a mess. We can't figure out how to end it and, oh ooops, we didn't leave any plans in place for any way out. We even got a 70-page Housing Report that we all agree on, but do we, and and and. LA CITY and Alameda County are the only moratoriums still in place. Krekorian a member of the housing Committee and the City Council is refusing to do his job. That's NOT the way it works in government or even as an adult. You have what is called A Responsibility. So, Councilman, where is your vote?
