Comments for Public Posting: This policy is out of the boundaries of the City Council's authority. It's not logical to carry out a civil case against a manufacturer of a product just because someone MISUSES the product to cause harm. If someone uses a baseball bat to break a window, that's not the intended use of the bat, should the owner of the window carry out a civil case against the baseball bat company just because the hardwood was strong enough to break a window? This policy is just simply not logically sound and entirely politically motivated. The political motivation is to chip away at the U.S Constitution's Second Amendment and by using legal subterfuges to make the gun industry suffer just because the Neo-Dromcratic party is playing a long game of destroying the Constitution piece by piece.
