Comments for Public Posting: I'm writing in support of The Pacific Dining Car. In this time of fast food and chain restaurants, it's so easy to lose our past. The Pacific Dining Car, founded in 1921, 101 years ago (!) was a real beacon of old school charm, fine dining, and beautiful service. My family and I have eaten there for three generations and loved it so much. The baseball steak! The roast beef! The chocolate soufflé. Stars from Mae West to Johnny Depp frequented the place which featured in such films as Chinatown and Training Day. It's not just the food.... it's the history. Please, please, designate this wonderful piece of Los Angeles history as a historical site and help preserve this beautiful part of Old Los Angeles.

Comments for Public Posting: I want the whole building designated (protected), to honor the near century that politicians, international dignitaries, business people and families gathered together under this roof, each shaping our city in their own ways. PDC has been a 24-hour sanctuary for the literary and entertainment world, and a bridge between many vibrant L.A. communities. Known as much for making deals as for making memories, it has been a place for city and personal business functions, and family celebrations for around 100 years.

Comments for Public Posting: I vote to preserve an important piece of Los Angeles history. Save the Pacific Dining Car. Give it the historical status it deserves as a long time landmark restaurant. In our fair city, so much of our past is destroyed and so many treasured legacy businesses have disappeared. Places we enjoyed with family. Places we celebrated life. These places connect us to our past. They are important to Angelenos who have held these businesses as part of their life story. Part of the fabric of their lives. And part of the fabric of our beloved city. Save them. Places like Pacific Dining Car cannot be replaced. They are special. They deserve a place in our future. There are plenty of spaces to fill, plenty of abandoned buildings to refurbish. Lets not lose a beloved friend for no good reason. Thank you, John Novak. Los Angeles, CA
