Comments for Public Posting: In case the rest of u are up at 4am.... Wed the city council is hearing the Livable Communities Initiative. We need loads of people to write in saying they support it. Here are a few reasons: — u want a more walkable city — u want more diverse neighborhoods — u don't want to have to commute 2 hours every day — u want mom and pop owners to be able to develop 2-5 story multi family buildings just like they can build ADU's now — u want to cut the red tape and make it as easy to build human scale, beautiful multi family, mixed use buildings as it is to build huge luxury apartment buildings and single family homes — u want to be able to walk/ride a bike to deal with your regular activities like work, grocery shopping, cafes — u want your kids to be able to live near you — u want your parents to live near u — u want gentle density, not high rises — u want work force to not have to live all the way in riverside — u want prettier tree lined streets with cafes and people walking about Here are the steps: 1. Open link below 2. Fill in name, email and write your comment — comment can be something like this: (u can cut + paste or write your own) (If u live in Nithya, Marqueece, Krekorian or Lee's district, mention that) "I support the LCI and I want the council to support it too. The LCI addresses our housing, climate and mobility crisis. Specifically I support it because I want my children to have affordable housing so they can remain in Los Angeles; so workers don't have to commute from Riverside; to help minimize our housing shortage! Our city can be more inclusive, sustainable, prettier, safer, and more livable. The LCI is one solution to helping us get there. I urge you to vote yes. Thank you.

Comments for Public Posting: I deeply support the initiative to transform Los Angeles into a walkable and bike-friendly city. Our addiction to cars is killing our health, our housing, and so many other aspects of our lives. It may seem impossible, but I truly believe this transformation can happen in Los Angeles — countless European cities are testament to this possibility. Even the change in Culver City with the MOVE Culver City initiative has been inspiring. We just need the courage and the determination. A better future is possible — for ourselves, and for the generations of Angelenos after us. Thank you for your consideration.

Comments for Public Posting: I support the Livable Communities Initiative -- it is the most holistic plan for housing, traffic and climate out there that can also get built quickly and cost-effectively. We should try to build to build our entire RHNA target of 456,000 units equitably, sustainably, and with urgency.

Comments for Public Posting: I'm an Angeleno who supports the Livable Communities Initiative and am asking the City Council to do the same! By marrying gentle density with complete streets the LCI will make our city more vibrant, affordable, equitable, and just plain better. People should be able to live closer to their jobs and to be able to bicycle safely in their neighborhoods. Thank you.

Comments for Public Posting: I support the LCI (living communities initiative) and you should too. Having less traffic and more walkable neighborhoods with live / work spaces is just what Los Angeles needs. Add to that more trees and an engaged community and you can't go wrong.

Comments for Public Posting: On Wednesday, I urge the City Council to support the LCI initiative. I have been observing the program evolve and am impressed by the caliber of thought, innovation and heart that are infused within the plan to address a myriad of concerns facing our city - ranging from affordable housing, to climate, to community. LA should be leading in urban planning innovation, environmentalism, and capitalizing on the rich diversity of our community. Instead we are falling short. The LCI offers great potential to improve our city ~ please support the plan. Thank you.

Comments for Public Posting: I support the LCI and I want the council, particularly my council representative, Paul Koretz, to support it too. Specifically I support it because it is an avenue for providing housing that will allow people to live and work in the same community, reduce traffic and add quality of life for so many. Our city can and should be more inclusive, sustainable, prettier, safer and well, more livable. The LCI is one solution to helping us get there. I urge you all to vote yes. Thank you.

By marrying gentle density with complete streets the LCI will make our city more vibrant, affordable, equitable, and just plain better. I have 2 young adults and LA is basically unaffordable. They shouldn't have to live at home or share a 2 bedroom apartment with 3 other people just to get by.
