Comments for Public Posting: Under what powers does anyone on the city council think they have the right to indefinitely extend the city state of emergency? I understand that city council was given _TEMPORARY_ power while "conditions of disaster or extreme peril to the safety or persons or property" had arisen, but how can they possibly make the argument that those same conditions exist when they've opened schools, businesses, live music and sporting events etc., etc?!?! There is just no way you can make both arguments..... There are legitimate damages accumulating daily that the city will ultimately be responsible for...good luck with that
