Comments for Public Posting: The Sixth Street Pacific Dining Car is like me: born and raised in Los Angeles. I've lived and worked here all my life, and every day I see big money eating all that made my city liveable. The excuse is the housing shortage, yet many rent-controlled, affordable units are replaced with shiny micro-boxes that no one can afford to live in. Please, let's keep some of our heritage as great cities should do, and adapt the PDC to modern use.
