Comments for Public Posting: Please save the Pacific Dining Car restaurant. Its an institution and historic LA landmark. Due to the COVID-19 Pandemic they, along with many other restaurants, had to close their doors, but they were a downtown landmark for over 99 years before then and im sure they would have celebrated their 100 year plus if they didn't close. Where else in Downtown LA could you get a dry aged steak and chocolate souffle at 230am, in a formal restaurant setting. Please make this a LA historic landmark.

Comments for Public Posting: Pacific Dining Car is vital to the business community in DTLA. For 20 years I've conducted business meetings, workplace celebrations, dinners for entertainment before an event downtown. So often when planning meetings with folks from out of town, they suggest meeting at "the great dining car restaurant." As a medical device representative, many meetings were easily held with folks from the hospital across the street during lunch and after work. Pacific Dining Car is greatly missed and needs to be preserved for all these reasons but mostly for it's historical significance.
