Comments for Public Posting: As a long time business owner near by, Pacific Dining Car, this historic landmark hold so many Cheris able memories , That we can not longer experience with the closing of this Los Angeles landmark , My heart broke down when I realized that was close, I went there with my 4 daughters for many years, to the afternoon tea. There we share etiquette classes and their wonderful food and excellent Service, they Knew me by my name. Bring it back, Bring it back, Bring it Back.

Comments for Public Posting: The Pacific Dining Car restaurant has been an institution and a part of the fabric of the City of Los Angeles. With its rich history of service to to the City of Los Angeles, extensive list of key Angelinos who enjoyed it and it's unparalleled service, the Historic designation should be a foregone conclusion. Please count my vote for the historic designation accordingly! Thanks you for your consideration Comments for Public Posting: The place is run-down blight on the neighborhood. And none of the people who live in the local area could ever afford to eat there--$59 for steak? Anyway, it would be nice to see something there that serves the people who live in the community.

Comments for Public Posting: Please allow the Pacific Dining Car to become a historic part of Los Angeles that will never end. This type of establishment is quickly becoming something that our society cherishes but have no control on keeping them from being closed. Thank you,
