Comments for Public Posting: Instead of demolishing it and handing it off to some big developer for capitalistic gain, you should redevelop it and make it affordable housing/mix use. You can house small business/ shops on first floors and the rest be affordable housing. There are so many homeless people and families living in the streets of Los Angeles. Isn't time for the City of LA to step up to their promises of cleaning up the streets by offering new homes to its citizens.
