Comments for Public Posting: On a regular basis I had breakfast at the the Pacific Dining Car on 6th Street and Bixel in the early 1980's, In reflecting on my experience there, I was always treated with respect. Even though I was not a person whose face adorned the pages of the Los Angeles Times. I can remember seeing many noteworthy civic leaders,public officials and policticians Preserving the Pacific Dining Car would prevent the creation of a void in the culture that is Los Angeles. By preservibg the Pacific Dining Car the history past of Los Angeles would come to life for many people who have only read about the early days Los Angeles.
