Comments for Public Posting: Far too many Cultural Historic Buildings are torn down because people either don't know, or don't care about their history. Lives were saved in THIS BUILDING! Morris Kight's work here was the foundation of LGBT Culture in Los Angeles, and a symbol of Pride for the community. What would be even better is if his office could be recreated inside and have pictures of all of the accomplishments that resulted from meetings in this house hung on the walls as a mini history museum .
